RELEASED MAN IS UNGRATEFUL

William Shepherd, After Two Years in Jail, Came Here and Got Drunk.

PARADED DOWN TOWN STREETS

Making Idle Boast of Violence—
Finger of Scorn Pointed At Him.

William Shepherd, the Manila man who had been in the Shelby county jail for two years and who was released yesterday, being pardoned by Governor Marshall, was in Rushville last night celebrating his freedom. Shepherd was arrested on a serious charge and found guilty, the jail sentence being an extraordinary one.

Shepherd evidently did not appreciate the effort which was spent in his behalf in securing a pardon for he was seen staggering about the streets of this city last night in a drunken condition. He was posing as a hero, instead of burying his head in shame, and delighted in attracting attention on the streets and in the saloons where he spent the night. Foolishly he thought people were pointing him out because he achieved some fame on account of his long jail sentence, and the break for liberty he made during his incarceration, when in truth it was the finger of scorn being pointed at him.

Shepherd made a number of boasts about saloons that the first thing he intended doing was to whip several newspaper men who had written up stories of his escapades and reviewed his checkered career. Such half-made pieces of humanity should not be given space in the newspapers for they crave notoriety and confuse it with fame. It would be a waste of words to make a prediction regarding Shepherd, but such ungrateful low-brows eventually direct their paths towards crime and finish with long days behind prison walls.

Shepherd intends to spend some time on an uncle's farm in Rush county, at least he has given that out as his plans. But his plans will be slightly altered if he thinks he can come to this city and parade the streets in an intoxicated condition, making open the idle threats of violence. Bad boys like him soon come to grief, get whipped and are sent back to jail.

EDWARD EVERETT HALE DIED TODAY

Chaplain of the United States Senate Passed Away at Roxbury, Aged 87 Years.

WAS FAMOUS AS PREACHER

Boston, June 10.—The Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the U. S. senate and author of "The Man Without a Country," died at his home in Roxbury this morning, age eighty-seven years.

News of the death of Dr. Hale shocked Boston to an unusual degree because comparatively few knew that he was ill. A week ago he was present at a celebration in honor of the ninetieth birthday of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, his contemporary in many of the reform movements with which both had been identified for more than fifty years.

Rushville is going to boom.

STRUCK SAME PLACE TWICE

And Same Child Was Shocked by Lightning—Tree is Cut Down.

For the second time within a few weeks says the Connersville News a little daughter of H. I. Simmermeyer, living south-east of Connersville, was shocked by lightning and for the second time lightning struck the same tree, in about the same place—an elm tree, that stood in the Simmermeyer yard. The property belongs to Marion Jemison and after the second stroke of lightning yesterday he ordered the tree cut down.

SCHOLARSHIP IS GIVEN TO BAXTER

Amos Baxter is Awarded Course in Purdue University by the Commissioners.

GRADUATE OF HIGH SCHOOL.

The county commissioners have awarded another scholarship to Purdue University, this one going to Amos Baxter, graduated from the high school here last year, and came out with flying colors so far as grades were concerned. He was offered the scholarship last year, but refused it as he did not feel able to accept it. It was given to Glen Kirkham, of Center township, who has been attending school this year. It has been taken away from him as he has the means to get a college education, and again offered to Baxter.

CITY BAND IN THE SECOND CONCERT

Made Even a More Decided Hit Last Night Than on Previous Nights.

MUCH CREDIT TO DIRECTOR

The city band made its second appearance last night and made even a more decided hit than they did with the first concert. Their music was excellent and is far superior to that played by any band in this city in previous years. Too much cannot be said in praise of the director J. A. Cushing who has worked wonders with the band.

The business men are donating liberally to the cause and have pledged so much each week for the concerts. The concert was given on a stand at the corner of Main and Second streets. This will be used all the time.

ALAS! WE KNOW THEM ALL

Lon Glore and Jane Bright in the Bright Light at Shelbyville.

There is a bit of Indian in Alonzo Glore's make-up says the Shelbyville News. Glore was arrested on Tuesday night on a charge of intoxication, Mrs. Jane Bright pushing the prosecution. As soon as Glore got his ten days' dose in Justice Van-Cleve's court, he swore to an affidavit charging Mrs. Bright with "cohabiting in a state of fornication with Charles Miller."

Rushville is going to boom.

HUGH MAUZY TO TAKE A BRIDE

Announcement is Made of Marriage of Well Known Young Business Man.

TO WED A RICHMOND GIRL

Tri Kappa's Gave the First Inking of the Affair in Their Special Edition.

A prediction in the Tri Kappa edition of the Daily Republican is now taking shape and will soon become a reality. Under the caption of "Some Hot Gossip" a news item appeared which told the story of wedding bells and orange blossoms soon to jingle and make a scent in the life of a well known young business man of Rushville.

But here's the story in detail as it appeared in the society columns of the Richmond Palladium last night:

"Miss Marjorie Pennell was hostess for a charming company given last evening at her home in South Nineteenth streets. The affair was in the nature of an announcement party, the engagement of Miss Anna Ross to Mr. Hugh Mauzy of Rushville, Ind., being announced at this time. The wedding will be celebrated sometime in the early fall. The house was beautifully decorated with Richmond roses and ferns. The place cards were tiny announcement letters and were quite unique in design. The evening was spent in social conversation with music. The guests were Miss Anna Ross, Miss Bessie Thompson, Miss Ruby Wilson, Miss Elsie Beeler, Miss Ruth Mashmeyer, Miss Anna Harrington and Mrs. E. J. Dykeman.

Miss Ross is one of the most popular young women of this city. In musical circles she is also well known, being a musician of remarkable ability. Miss Ross is a graduate of the Richmond high school and has also attended a conservatory of music. She is a member of the Music Study club and has appeared in this city at a number of recitals. Her many friends extend heartiest congratulations. She is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. George Becker of South Eleventh street. Mr. Mauzy is equally popular in business and social circles of his home town."

MONKEY FACE OWL WAS CAUGHT HERE

South American Bird Captured by a Young Man in Walker Township.

IS NOW ON EXHIBITION HERE

Harry Fletcher captured a live monkey face owl on the farm of Squire Dearing in Walker township, this county and it is now on exhibition at Wolcott's drug store. This species of owl is common in South America but a rare bird in these parts.

BUT OH YOU RESURRECTION!

Connersville News: Hon. Jas. E. Watson took occasion while here yesterday and today in the Thompson case at the court house, to renew acquaintance with political and other friends. "Jim" says that they buried him last fall so it is natural he should be interested in a grave yard law suit.

Rushville is going to boom.

LOOK FORWARD TO TOURNAMENT

Much Expected of Second Annual Gun Club Shoot to be Held Next Week.

PROMINENT SHOTS TO ATTEND

New Club House Erected—Gun Trap
Installed and Three Tennis Courts Built.

The members of the Rushville gun and country club are expecting much of their second annual registered tournament which will be held here Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Great preparations are being made to take care of the large crowd. They wish to make the shoot even more successful than the one held last year.

Word from prominent shots all over the country has been received saying that they will attend and are coming with the expectation of breaking some records. The prospects are now for a much more successful tournament than the one held last year. It was far beyond all expectations.

With the addition of the country club to the gun club, many new names are now found on the list and the number of members reaches one hundred and twenty. An initiation fee of five dollars was charged each new member and with the extra funds a new club house, three tennis courts, and an extra shooting trap were constructed. The club house is a small structure but is neatly arranged and beautifully painted in festive colors. The new trap has been installed to accommodate the large number of shots who will be present at the tournament next week. The tennis courts would have been finished today had it not been for the rain. The tennis fiends are anxiously awaiting the completion of the courts, when some interesting sets will be pulled off.

The club house is not a permanent structure and was erected to serve only for the present. At a later date it is thought that a larger house will be built across the race upon the hill. Already the members are looking forward to this improvement.

ROMPED ABOUT AT THE SOCIAL CLUB

Children of Industrial School Could Not Hold Picnic at Fair Grounds.

ON ACCOUNT BAD WEATHER

On account of the rain, the picnic planned for the members of the Industrial School at the fair grounds was declared off and instead an indoors affair was made of it. The ladies in charge, rather than see the children suffer a disappointment, secured permission to use the Social Club building and it was there the happy youngsters romped and played and ate the entire afternoon. And it goes without saying that they enjoyed the treat of being guests at Rushville's most fashionable club than battling with mosquitos on the Lord's earthly footstool. Like most typical Americans they would rather hear the click of the billiard ball on the green cloth than the chirp of the cricket while communing with nature.

Rushville is going to boom.

HAD A HICCOUGHING SPELL

Ben L. Smith Had Annoying Experience For Twenty-Four Hours.

Ben L. Smith was taken sick while visiting his daughter, Mrs. Erema Slaughter at Chicago last week. He returned Sunday with hiccoughs which continued until Monday night, when his physicians succeeded in stopping them. He is still quite ill.

SHE NEVER MISSED A DAY IN HER LIFE

Marie Heckman Was Presented With Gold Necklace For a Perfect Attendance.

AND NEVER WAS TARDY ONCE

Miss Marie Heckman, a pupil of No. 10, this township and one of the eighth year graduates yesterday was presented with a fine gold necklace and locket by County Superintendent Randall for perfect attendance during the entire eight years course. The award was made by the county board of education. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heckman.

Miss Heckman never missed a day of school or was never tardy. Most of the time she lived one mile from school building.

SOUTHERNERS OUT WITH HOSPITALITY

Shriners Are Enjoying Themselves at National Convention at Louisville.

IN VERY MIDST OF THE WHIRL

Messages from Rushville Shriners who are attending the Louisville convention are that they are all enjoying their visit to the limit and that Louisville is showing them the good time of their lives. A number of side trips have been arranged, including a steam boat ride on the Ohio and a visit to the Mammoth Cave.

Genuine Southern hospitality prevails every place the Shriners go and the people there cannot do enough for them. Hoosiers, being neighbors, come in for the lion's share of entertainment and they know a good thing, too, when they see it.

Rushville is liberally represented. There are not many cities of the same class in the State that turns out more thirty-second degree Masons at their meetings, and the membership of Murat Temple from this city is rapidly growing.

GOV. HALL IS IMPROVING

Was Again in a Precarious Condition For Several Days.

Lieutenant Gov. Hall, who has been quite ill with stomach and liver trouble, and who for several days was in a precarious condition, was much improved yesterday and today. He got a setback recently, getting out of bed against the advice of friends and relatives.

Morristown is oiling its streets.

TO LAFAYETTE FOR THIRD TIME

Indiana Music Teachers Association
Will be Held There the Later
Part of June.

ONE THOUSAND EXPECTED

Miss Jessie Kitchen is Secretary For Rush County and Extends Invitation to Teachers.

The thirty-second annual convention of the Indiana Music Teachers' Association will be held in Lafayette, Indiana, June 29th and 30th and July 1st and 2d. All progressive music teachers of recognized standing as such, are invited to place their application for membership as early as possible. The membership fee is two dollars. Application for membership may be sent to the State Secretary James S. Bergen, Lafayette, Indiana, or to Miss Jessie Kitchen, Rushville, who is secretary of Rush county.

An excellent musical program rendered by artists from Chicago, Boston, New York, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, and other musical centers, will be one of the features of the meeting.

Preparations have been completed for an attendance of at least one thousand.

Three thousand dollars worth of tickets for the concerts have been sold already in Lafayette. This is the third time the Association has been entertained in Lafayette, the citizens of this quaint historic city being renowned for their devotion at the shrine of the music while their hospitality partakes to a proportionate degree of their love for music.

ANSWERS THE CALL OF DEATH ANGEL

Mrs. James R. Maudlin Expired Yesterday Evening of Heart Trouble After Brief Illness.

FUNERAL SERVICES FRIDAY

Mrs. James R. Maudlin died at her home in West First street yesterday evening at six o'clock of heart trouble after a brief illness. She was sixty-seven years of age. The deceased was a devout christian and a member of the St. Paul's M. E. church.

Mrs. Maudlin was married twice, first to William R. Pitman in 1853 and second to James R. Maudlin in 1875. To the first union were born two children, Mrs. Howard S. Stamm of West First street and William E. Pitman of near New Salem, both survive her.

The funeral services will be conducted from the late residence tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. V. W. Tevis. Burial in East Hill.

SIX PAGES TODAY.
On account of a break in the big press of the Daily Republican today the edition had to be printed on a smaller press and for that reason is cut down to six pages.

THE WEATHER

Partly cloudy tonight and Friday.
Cooler south portion tonight.

THE NEW STORE AT Falmouth

Credit a Detriment

People begin more and more to realize that credit is a detriment to their own interest, not only because it is costly, unbusinesslike and unwise, but for its temptation to buy what they would not buy if they had to pay the cash down. That it is costly is forcibly illustrated by a farmer near Laurel who paid at a sale this spring, 88c per bushel for corn because he could get it on six months time. That foolish man could have gone to the bank and borrowed the money he needed at 6 per cent. per annum and bought the corn at 60c per bu. The same happens every day when you go to a store and buy on a charge account. You don't suppose for a minute that your storekeeper is a philanthropist and will let you use his money out of pure love or sympathy. If you do; you were never more mistaken. That money cost him 6% at least and rest assured he is getting that back from you and very often a great deal more for there are always people who forget to pay their bills and Mr. Storekeeper figures on that and regulates his prices accordingly. You, the honest one, pay the dishonest ones account. Down in Southern Indiana, a clerk in a general store told his employer he had sold a $3.00 horse collar, but forgot to whom. "Well," said the Boss, "the best way is to charge one to all people who possibly could have bought a collar, then the one who doesn't kick is your man." The clerk charged 17 collars to so many accounts and those 17 people paid without a flinch and the storekeeper was $48 the better for the scheme.

If a man's credit is good at all, he can get $50 or $100 at his bank at 6 per cent. and if he is afraid of spending it too fast, let him leave it at the bank and pay his bills by checks. No bank will refuse a check, even for a portion of a dollar, and it gives him a good opportunity to keep tab on his expenses.

Let me illustrate what you can save by cash. Say, for instance, you need a Studebaker farm wagon, which will cost you complete on your six months note, $85.00. Now, instead, you borrow the money from your bank, which will cost you $2.40, and buy from us for cash, the same style wagon, for $80.00. You can readily see that you save $2.60 on this transaction with no more outlay of money than when you buy on your note, but, simply instead of borrowing of the Merchant, you borrow of the Bank, whose business it is to loan money. This is only one instance, but it works all along the line and you will be surprised to see the savings at the end of the year. Besides, it gives you the satisfaction of knowing that you paid only for what you got.

Try it for one year. You will never regret it. But remember, you must buy of an exclusive cash store.

IN MEMORIAM.

Another one of Rush county's beloved has gone to her reward. Mrs. Hester H. Jones died in Pierce City, Mo., June 3d, 1909.

She was the daughter of the late Benjamin F. Reeve and was born in Noble township, November 30, 1843. She was a dear friend of the writer of this sketch, who lived in her home for many years and therefore can testify to her pure life and many virtues. She was united in marriage to Capt. Jones (also of Rush county) August 28, 1886. To that union was born four children, two sons and two daughters. The sons died in infancy. The daughters, Mrs. John W. Taylor and Mrs. Frank Kirkpatrick survive their mother.

Mrs. Jones made her last visit to Rush county last September, to be present as a special guest at the Golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Guffin, and to renew old friendships. She will be remembered as one of the most happy and entertaining guests present.

Her sudden death will be a painful surprise to all who knew and loved her. She was educated at Glendale, Ohio, and thoroughly accomplished in all that pertains to a true woman. Peace and rest be hers.

REMEMBER AN OLD FAVORITE

Friends of Mrs. N. G. Meredith Surprise Her With a Post Card Shower Monday.

SHE WAS 81 YEARS OF AGE

Former Pastor Sent Her a Letter and a Beautiful Poem Appropriate For the Occasion.

Mrs. Namah G. Meredith, of West Fifth street, was eighty-one years old Monday and was kindly remembered by her friends, who gave her a postal card shower of liberal proportions. Of about forty cards and letters received, the larger part came from Ray Milton, Venango county, Pa., the former home of the grateful recipient.

Mrs. Meredith was formerly a teacher in this city and township.

Enclosed with a nice letter from the pastor of her old home church at Ray Milton, was the beautiful poem which follows:

GROWING OLD.

They call it going down the hill
When we are growing old,
And speak with mournful accents
When our tale is nearly told;
They sigh when talking of the past,
The days that used to be,
As if the future were not bright
In immortality.

But it is not going down,
'Tis climbing higher and higher,
Until we almost see the mount
To which our souls aspire;
For if the natural eye grows dim,
It is but dim to earth,
While the eye of faith grows keener
To see the Savior's worth.

For though the truth the outward man
Must perish and decay,
The inward man shall be renewed
By grace from day to day;
Those who are planted by the Lord,
Unshaken in their root,
Shall in their old age flourish
And bring forth choicest fruit.

It is not years that make men old,
The spirit may be young
Though fully three-score years and ten
The wheels of life have run,
God has himself recorded
In His blessed Word of Truth,
That they who wait upon the Lord
Shall oft renew their youth

And ears now dull with coming age
Shall hear the harps of heaven ring
And when the eye now dim with tears
Shall open to behold the King,
And on the head now hoary
Shall be placed a crown of gold,
Then shall we know the lasting joy
Of never growing old.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

KIBOSH ON ROWDY DANCE.

(Richmond Palladium)

Because instructors and professors of Earlham college considered the barn dance a violation of the rules of the college, the members of the junior and freshman classes who picnicked at Jackson's park Saturday, were told that if they proceeded with the barn dance they would be expelled from the school. The students of the two classes were also warned not to stay at the park not later than nine o'clock, at which time they could catch an interurban car back to this city.

IN THE WRONG PEW.

(Shelbyville News.)

One of the most prominent attorneys in Shelbyville created much amusement on an I. & C. traction car the other night by making a mistake that every one saw, but which was not discovered by the man in question for some time. The lawyer boarded the car with his daughter and started toward the front end.

While he was speaking to a friend his daughter went to a vacant seat. Then the lawyer, believing that he had followed her, took a seat beside a strange woman. He started to talk to her without glancing around and was greatly surprised by a long-drawn-out "Sir!" from the highly indignant woman, who was unmistakably under the impression that she was being insulted by some "old masher." The attorney, startled by the answer he received, looked hurriedly at his companion and was surprised to see a strange woman beside him. He hastily made a retreat to the seat occupied by his daughter, while the strange woman continued her journey so visibly nervous and angry that she could scarcely contain herself.

MASHER IS MASKED.

(Shelbyville News.)

A would-be masher stood on the Square and ogled every young woman that chanced to pass that way. He had something to say to every woman that looked in his direction and if not to her he made some comment on her appearance to his companions, who evidently thought him witty, for they laughed uproariously. It happened that a good looking young woman passed and the masher had to resort to that saying, which is now old enough to have whiskers, "I love my wife, but oh, you kid."

He looked directly at the young woman when he made the exceedingly witty and original remark. She became furious and she turned on him in such a way that led spectators to believe that there would be something doing. All she did, however, was to remark in voice loud enough for all bystanders to hear, "I love my dog, but oh, you pup." The masher was speechless and the crowd turned on him and gaped him unmercifully. They made it so uncomfortable for him that he sneaked away as soon as he could do so. There was nothing dignified in the remark of the young woman, but it seemed to have served the purpose for which she intended it.

DOG WITH A CONSCIENCE.

(Columbus Republican)

A tagless but apparently a very intelligent shepherd dog called at the city building early this morning and surrendered himself to Janitor Shields, who locked him up in the pound in the basement of the city building. The dog seemed to realize that he was violating the dog ordinance, or rather was being forced to do so by his owner, and becoming more conscience-stricken than his master he decided to await the coming of the dog catchers, but gave himself up instead, regardless of the consequences.

HOW TIMES DO CHANGE.

(Washington Post.)

A year ago Indiana stood about third in the list of states paying the largest amount of internal revenue tax from its distilleries. Now eighty of its ninety-two counties have voted "dry," and it is expected that one or two more will vote the same way. There used to be an old saying out there, "The more rain the more corn, the more corn the more whiskey, the more whiskey the more Democrats. Indiana went Democratic last year and now goes dry. Things have changed."

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of the price.

For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

WANTED: 50 MEN AND WOMEN.

F. E. Wolcott the enterprising druggist, is advertising today for fifty men and women to take advantage of the special half price offer he is making on Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia and get a fifty cent package at half price, 25c.

So positive is he of the remarkable power of this specific to cure these diseases, as well as sick headaches and liver troubles, that he agrees to refund the money to any customer whom this medicine does not quickly relieve and cure.

With Dr. Howard's specific at hand you can eat what you want and have no fear of ill consequences. It strengthens the stomach, gives perfect digestion, regulates the bowels, creates an appetite, and makes life worth the living.

This is an unusual opportunity to obtain 60 doses of the best medicine ever made for half its regular price, with the personal guarantee of a well known business man to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

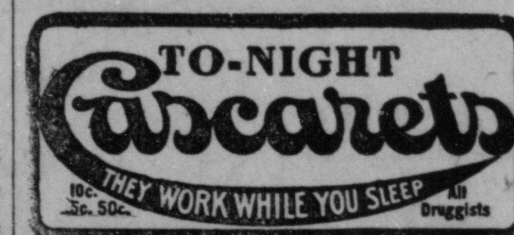

If you can not call at F. E. Wolcott's store today, send him 25 cents by mail and he will send you a package, promptly charges paid.

You can't afford to lose the services of a horse for one day during the next few months. Begin now to get all your stock in first class condition so they can work their best when you need them most. Dr. Daniels' Renovator will do it, or your money refunded.

Much interest is centered in the games and a good crowd is expected. The Morristown aggregation will strengthen their team by the addition of "Windy" Morgan and Eddie Carter of this city, who have been playing with Connersville all this season.

BIG DAY AT LITTLE FLATROCK CHURCH

Was Children's Day Last Sunday. Lecture by Miss Mary Logan.

LARGE COLLECTION TAKEN UP.

The Children's Day exercises at the Little Flatrock Christian church last Sunday were a success in every particular. The attendance at the Sunday school was the largest in the history of the school—the number reaching 112, and the collection amounted to over one hundred dollars.

Miss Mary Logan, a returned missionary from India, lectured in the morning and a full house to overflowing greeted her.

The exercises in the evening consisted of a program given wholly by the children and attracted an immense crowd.

A missionary collection was taken up and all of the collections of that day will go to foreign missions.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

CHAPTER II. THE EXILES.

SIX years of life abroad, and these during the most impressionable period of their young lives, had left an indelible imprint upon the two young people.

Horace Simpson had taken to himself the manners of the Harrow and Oxford youth. He had eschewed the society of what he had learned, with parrot-like aptness, to call those "vulgar Americans" and had confined his social intercourse solely to such of the European "haut ton" as he could manage to scrape acquaintance with.

And this last was a somewhat uphill task, for, whatever else one may say about the English, they are inclined to view with very little favor the possessor of no other attribute than money. True, there are exceptions, and these but prove the rule.

Ethel, who had grown into a really beautiful young woman, had followed suit, so far as in her modest powers lay. Such of her school friends as would permit the half formed acquaintance to ripen she had retained. Such others of her own modest beginnings she had quietly but emphatically dropped. From plain democracy she had sought the antithesis, and the leap was all the more an earnest one because of its breadth.

The Simpsons—and they had added their mother's maiden name and linked it to the paternal nomenclature with a hyphen—had been deeply bitten with the aristocratic virus and after a long and arduous struggle had managed to meet Lady Creech.

This titled mondaine had the misfortune to be viciously short of patrimony and inordinately long of lineage, and, while her life of self denial had doubtless blighted her, she had a most inordinate value of birth and a distinct appreciation of cash; hence when it came her way to pick the Granger-Simpsons out of the slough of commonplace acquaintance she did it with a royal favor and for a stipulated consideration.

"Really, my dear Hawcastle"—she pronounced it as old sailors pronounce "foe's'tle"—she was wont to say, "really, of course, they are quite impossible, but the girl is an adaptable little thing, and I may be able to make something of her in time, while the boy—ah, I fear I shall have to leave him to you and St. Aubyn."

"Do as you like," replied the Earl of Hawcastle, with some choler, "but keep them out of my way as much as possible. I positively will not be badgered by these unbaked colonists."

"One might stand a quantity of badgering, Hawcastle, for £300,000," at which the genial earl would squirm nervously.

At any rate, the Simpson children began to be seen in the second stratum of London society and met endless numbers of the shopworn nobility, but, sad to relate, never one of the truly respectable. To those who know their London there are several layers of nobility, and the layer the ordinary individual meets, who has no social prestige to begin with, is composed of that peculiar class that lends its name to doubtful directorates, to queer prospectuses, to struggling milliners with an eye on the main chance and who gladly extend unlimited credit to their patrons in return for modest and well put advertisement.

Strangely enough, the Hawcastle-Creech combination did not drag the willing Simpsons into the glittering presence of the real set.

On the contrary, with a somewhat dog in the manger policy, they awakened both the earl and his sister-in-law to the fact that they wished no sharers in those American dollars that John Simpson had sweated his brow for, and as a consequence they proposed a little trip—a quiet, ante-season trip—to Sorrento, where not a guest would disturb them and where matters might be given a chance to right themselves.

And there, strangely enough, the Simpsons met the Comtesse de Champigny and were quite delighted to find the gifted and brilliant Frenchwoman an intimate of the earl's. The second morning of their arrival the gay comtesse put in an appearance and with a promptitude that was astonishing took young Horace under the widowed wing and marked him for her own. And that same morning the noble earl took his equally noble son into the shrubbery and spoke to him.

"You've got to do it, St. Aubyn," he said. "The family honor is at stake. For heaven's sake, marry the little fool! What if her scurrilous name is Simpson? You can make her forget it."

"We are stony broke, my good boy, and she has a hundred and fifty thou. That will keep us going for another year or two, and if Helene can capture the young ass, Horace, I'll force her to divide with me."

"But it's such a beastly bore, governor," drawled Almeric St. Aubyn, and he flicked idly at the rhododendron bushes with his stick.

He was a pale, washed out youth, with an inimitable drawl and a shimmering of intellect that might, if it had been given an opportunity, have resolved itself into a good working imitation of a brain. To his friends he was "that hopeless ass" and to his enemies and debtors—of the latter not a few—"that beastly bounder, St. Aubyn."

"You see, governor," the honorable Almeric went on, "it isn't as if I cared for the little gal. I'm a queer beggar."

"The family honor is at stake,"

"The family honor is at stake."

you know, and it's fearfully rough on a chap to pretend interest in such a little vulgarian. Of course I know we're awfully hard up and all that sort of thing, but—"

His noble father seized him roughly by the arm.

The Hon. Almeric laughed. "Oh, all right, old chap!" he drawled. "I'll lift her to the infernal seventh heaven, or whatever you call it. Don't expect me to moon over her, though."

And that compact being settled, the earl went off for his morning walk along the cliff and Almeric to keep his engagement for a morning ride with Ethel Granger-Simpson.

CHAPTER III. IN DISGUISE.

AN hour later Mariano, the maitre d'hotel of the Regina Margherita, stepped out upon the terrace and began to lay a cloth upon one of the small round tables that stood close to the white marble balustrade. On the other side of the wall could be heard the mandolins and guitars of the fishermen, and Mariano glanced up crossly as the song arose upon the morning air.

"Silenzio!" he cried, and for a moment the music died down.

Mariano went at once to the table upon which he had spread the cloth and placed silverware and delicate china upon it, and he was thus engaged when Michele, the commissionaire, appeared at the top of a flight of marble steps that led into the eastern wing of the hotel, fronting on the terrace.

"Here is M. Ribiere to see you, sir," he said softly, with a backward glance over his shoulder, and Mariano straightened up instantly, with a smile of welcome, for Ribiere was an old and valued accomplice in the gentle art of soft Italian legal stealing.

A tall, alert young Frenchman, clad in an English walking suit of gray and carrying a portfolio beneath his arm, ran lightly down the steps and approached the maitre d'hotel.

"Ah, Mariano!" he cried as he approached.

The genial Mariano bowed gracefully and rubbed his flexible hands together.

"M. Ribiere?" he chattered gayly. "This is one of the days of days!"

The music burst forth again, and he whirled about angrily in the direction of the lemon grove.

"Silenzio!" he cried, with waving hands. "Silenzio!" and turned again to Ribiere, Michele, with a glance at them, went back within the hotel.

Ribiere turned a warning glance toward the hotel and whispered in Italian:

"Let us speak English. Fewer understand."

Mariano again bowed and spread out his hands in assent.

"I hope m'sieu still occupy the exalt' position of secretar' to monseigneur the gran' duke."

The Frenchman walked quickly to one of the little wicker tea tables that were scattered about, sat down and opened his portfolio.

"We will not mention either the name or the rank of my employer," he said gravely. "There are reasons of state. You understand?"

The maitre d'hotel threw up his hands in despair, and his round eyes rolled heavenward.

"Again incognito! Every year he come to threes hotel for two, three or four day, but always incognito!"

CATARH MUST GO

And Hawking, Spitting, Snuffles Must Go Too.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) will give the sufferer from catarrh joyful relief in five minutes.

It is such a remarkable cure, and so positive in its action, that F. B. Johnson & Co. go so far as to guarantee it to cure catarrh or money back.

A complete outfit, which consists of a hand rubber pocket inhaler, a title of Hyomei, and a unique dropper for filling the inhaler, only costs one dollar, and if an extra bottle is afterwards needed the price is only 50 cents.

Hyomei is a healing, antiseptic balsam, taken from the mighty eucalyptus trees in the health-giving forests of Australia, where diseases of the respiratory tract are unknown.

All the sufferer has to do is to inhale the antiseptic air of Hyomei over the inflamed parts where the germs are entrenched, three or four times a day.

It cures coughs, colds, asthma, hay fever and croup without stomach dosing.

AIRSHIP COAST GUARD

Signal Corps to Make Plans For Atlantic Seaboard Defense.

AEROPLANES AS AUXILIARIES.

Balloon Houses to Be Erected at Strategic Points Along the Coast, Which Is to Be Divided Into Zones With Dirigibles in Each Zone.

The creation of a big fleet of war balloons, with depots at strategic points along the coasts of the United States in which the aerial craft may be housed between flights, is the task set for Major George O. Squier of the signal corps, says a Washington dispatch. Major Squier recently received instructions to prepare plans for the aerial defense of the Atlantic coast, and he set to work enthusiastically. The plans when completed and approved will serve as a model for the Pacific and gulf coasts.

The war department is convinced, in the light of the achievement of the Zeppelin balloon, that the era of aerial navigation has arrived. It hopes that congress also will awake to a realization of the fact and that appropriations will be made sufficient to permit this government to keep pace with the European nations. It is in anticipation of favorable action by congress that the signal corps has been instructed to prepare the plans.

While Major Squier has not yet gone into the technical details of the matter, he has a general idea of the manner in which the plan will be worked out. The coast will be separated into ellipses approximating 250 miles in length, and at each end of these will be built two or three balloon houses and supply depots. The houses will be placed with a view to close co-operation with the artillery depots or zones, thus gaining protection and being quickly reached whenever the men behind the big guns discover the necessity of reconnoitering the enemy's position by the use of a balloon.

The balloon houses will be built in groups, so that when it is found expedient to concentrate two or three airships at a given point there will be accommodations for them. A dirigible is safe while in the air and even if its engine should become disabled can be operated as a free balloon. It is in landing or when at anchor in an exposed position that it is in danger from winds, and houses are an absolute necessity.

It is intended that a coast dirigible shall not pass off its own station except in cases of extremity and that the sailing distance shall be 125 miles south and 125 miles north from its depot. In this manner the entire coast from Maine to Florida will be patrolled in war, and it will be practically impossible for a hostile fleet to approach the United States without being discovered long before the sentinels on land could see the vessels. Once discovered the fleet's movements could be watched with safety and its maneuvers be sent the length of the coast.

The plans will include an elaborate system of vertical searchlights, by which the airships will be guided during night flights. These will mark the various batteries and the balloon depots, and they also will be used in signaling the swift flying ships overhead.

The dirigibles that congress will be asked to provide will be the equals of the best war balloons now in use in Europe. The envelopes will be not less than 200 feet long, twice the length of the United States dirigible No. 1, recently purchased by the war department from Captain Baldwin. Dirigible No. 1, Major Squier explained, is merely a practice ship and bears small resemblance to the finished fliers that are contemplated in the coast defense plan.

In order to support the dirigibles and act as couriers between the various depots and artillery stations it is thought that the plan will call for a small mobile fleet of aeroplanes. This phase of the proposed measures has not yet been taken up, although officers of the signal corps believe that the aeroplane could be used to advantage when quick flights were necessary for the carrying of orders or the transportation of officers. It would be used practically altogether as an auxiliary, and its use would relieve the dirigible of certain duties, permitting the balloon to give its entire time to patrol work.

If congress can be prevailed upon to look with favor on the signal corps' proposal steps will be taken to chart the air currents along the coast. It is believed that the air currents are as sharply defined as the currents of the ocean. While they are not so stable, it is held that their general trend can be determined.

There are so many expensive details such as these that the cost will be extremely heavy in creating such an aerial fleet.

COMET IS NOW ON THE WAY HERE

A Question as to What The Result
Would be Should it Collide
With the Earth.

IS GREATEST COMET KNOWN

Well Known That They Sometimes
Leave Their Regular Courses.

An event of unusual interest is promised for next year, in the visit of Halley's comet, the greatest ever known. A comet can always be depended upon to attract its share of attention. Scientists look and wonder and speculate, while the layman observes with awe, and sometimes fear. A great deal of superstition used to surround the appearance of a comet. One of the most common beliefs was that it portended war. And as a matter of fact, a comet is not the safest possible thing to have around. If one the size of Halley's should collide with the earth, it would probably burst asunder, knock it out of its orbit, or at any rate, it would almost certainly destroy life by the resultant heat and suffocating fumes that would fill the atmosphere, so we would care but little what else happened.

Webster defines a comet as a member of the solar system which usually moves in an elongated orbit, approaching very near to the sun in its perihelion, and receding to a very great distance from it at its aphelion.

So while the common conception used to be that a comet was a stray body, wandering wild and aimless through the vast realms of space, yet it has an orbit, and is subject to the laws of the universe—the same laws that keep the earth moving in its oval path around the sun, and cause it to revolve upon its axis, bringing us our changing seasons and day and night. Everything animate and inanimate, celestial and terrestrial, is subject to some law. However, they do say these comets sometimes fly off at a tangent, and leave their appointed courses. Small ones are known to have collided with the earth in the past, and the theory has been advanced that our moon is the remains of a comet that struck the earth long ages ago. This of course is mere speculation. Nobody really knows what these comets are, where or how they originate, and no more do they know about the earth or the sun or the stars. Man, by careful observation and calculation has learned to compute their movements, and to assign them their places in the solar system, but how they came to be, or from what formed, he knows naught. Of course their is the nebular theory and all that, but the facts are the problem of the universe, of which the comet is but a brief and startling manifestation, is too profound for any man brazenly to say he fully comprehends it.

BY THE WAYSIDE

Whenever anyone becomes infected with auto virus and is the probable purchaser of a machine, his friends make all sorts of suggestions to him as to the kind he should buy. Those familiar with auto driving say that it is necessary every now and then to get under the machine to make a few repairs and for this reason it has been suggested that the would-be purchaser buy one of those high wheeled vehicles so that he will have plenty of room.

When a man asks a woman to marry him she tells her mother, goes without gloves in zero weather to show her ring, makes a confident of every girl she knows in order that they may have plenty of time in which to get up kitchen showers, etc., and keeps lingerie in order to show it. Still she falls over in a fit if the announcement is made in the papers. Does anyone know why this modesty that out-shrieks the violet is displayed in regard to newspapers.

TIPPING ILLEGAL IN WASHINGTON STATE

New Will go Into Effect Tomorrow row—Punishable by a Fine.

GIVEN SUBJECT TO PENALTY

Olympia, Wash., June 10.—After today tipping will be illegal in the State of Washington, under a new law which applies to employees of public service corporations, hotels and restaurants. With visitors in Washington from all over the world to attend the Seattle exposition, it is thought that the measure will be impossible of enforcement. An attempt will be made to have the law declared unconstitutional, on the allegation that it is an abrogation of personal privilege.

Under the provisions of the new statute, the receivers of tips will be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than $250, or by imprisonment in a county jail for not more than ninety days. It is further provided that the givers of tips shall be subject to the same penalties.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

The invitations for the high school commencement this year were not ordered through a local printing house and the result is there is an omission of a name and perhaps other errors. But the out-of-town firms pay so much towards the support of our schools that little things like that should be overlooked.—Linton Citizen.

We have the same kind of "home pride" over here, and it is a wonder (?) the Indianapolis papers don't get out a special edition to write up the "stuck up" country high schools and faculties that forget their local newspapers when they have a commencement invitation to print.—Bloomfield News.

We expected some city paper to have a representative attend our commencement and give it an extended write-up, as the invitations bore the imprint of a foreign office. We were not even permitted to see the invitations, let alone receive one, therefore could not testify as to the workmanship. But we were permitted to attend the exercises and in the write-up forgot all about where the invitations were printed.—Orleans Examiner.

Aw, what are you fellows kicking about? Don't cher know it would not be quite an fait to patronize the home newspaper on occasions like this. What is the newspaper for anyhow if not to boost the town, the schools, the teachers, etc., and eat the husks.—Greensburg Review.

The Carelessness of Traction Passengers

The interurban car accidents which occupy a large place on the court dockets may reflect carelessness upon the part of the railway company, but they also point to carelessness on the part of passengers.

It is the trivial but hurtful accident that is the daily matter, and it is not creditable to the intelligence or care of the passengers, whatever may be the fault of the company, for the list of such accidents to be so long.

It does not require the court records to show how careless many citizens are getting on and off cars. To keep down the number of accidents the company and the passengers must work together. The employees must exercise the greatest vigilance and the passengers must remember not to expose themselves to danger.

That is a campaign that the Chicago railway managers are now engaged in. They wish for their own sake as well as for the passengers to reduce the number of accidents. And so they have drawn up these warnings:

"Don't cross tracks without looking both ways for approaching cars. "Don't get caught in the narrow space between two tracks when cars are passing.

"Don't fail when leaving a car to look down the street for an approaching automobile or other vehicle.

"Don't jump on or off the car while it is in motion.

"Don't ride on car steps.

"Don't get off facing rear of the car.

"Don't cross opposite track after leaving a car without looking for a car or vehicle which may be approaching from another direction.

"Don't run after a car and jump on it while it is going at speed.

"Don't let your children play near street-car tracks."

These "Don'ts" are not exclusively applicable to Chicago. They will fit any city, any railway system and any community of passengers.

They are respectively commended to all Rushville people.

CROP CONDITIONS ARE ENCOURAGING

Stand of Corn is Exceptionally Good While Wheat is Not up to Average.

POTATOES NEVER BETTER

Some farmers say that the grub worms are working on the timothy meadows.

The joint worm is at work on some fields of wheat and are damaging them greatly. Though the wheat has come out wonderfully since winter broke, still the crop will not be more than 50 per cent of an average in many places. The fertilized wheat looks fairly good, and where manure dressing was used, the wheat is promising.

The farmers are eager for nice weather so that they can cultivate their corn crop. Many of them have gone to work in their fields before the ground was dry enough. The weeds are getting a good start. The stand is exceptionally good.

Potatoes never looked better at this season of the year than they do now.

Clover harvest is not more than two weeks away. Then different harvests will follow in rapid succession. There will probably be no wheat cut before the fourth of July.

DECORATE THE HOME PREMISES

Shrubby, When Properly Arranged
Adds to Beauty of Home Surrounding.

CARE NEVER REGRETTED

A Few Hints Are Given That Anyone
Will do Well to Follow in Home
Beautifying.

Beautiful home grounds tastefully laid out and planted in flowers and shrubs improve the appearance of towns greatly if care is taken in the selection and arranging of shrubs.

Shrubs as a rule are intended as a frame for the yard or garden. They are planted around the borders of the lawn or used to screen the foundation of the house or to fill the corners.

The shrubbery frame for the yard or garden should be formed on the same principle as a picture frame, the border of a rug, etc. It should harmonize with the picture it encloses, and each shrub in the border should harmonize with its companions. Too often no attention is paid to this kind of harmony, and the shrubbery border becomes a thing of shreds and patches made up of showy bushes, perhaps beautiful plants in themselves, but arranged without regard to the effect or the shape, color and general appearance of one upon the whole.

In choosing shrubs to grow side by side consider the foliage and flowers as carefully as you consider the size and shape of the bush. Do not put large masses of light green foliage next to masses of dark, or you will have a patchy effect. By care in selection as regards flowering season you may be sure of having one or more plants in the border in blossom at all times during the summer. Two shrubs that blossom at the same time should not be placed together if the colors clash. In the summer study your shrubbery border and make notes as to new plants needed, their color, size and flowering season, and also what old plants may profitably be moved. These notes will enable you to work accurately in the fall after the blooming season or in the spring. Care in selecting and arranging the plants in your home grounds will never be regretted.
